

FOLK ALLIANCE INTERNATIONAL

Folk Alliance International highly recommends supporting and using the vision care services of Sight & Sound (501c3). They have provided free state of the art vision care, free glasses, sunglasses, readers and frames for our conference attendees for the several years. They also provide free vision referrals and comprehensive medical exams for those with more serious conditions outside of our events at medical clinics around the country. Most recipients of their service are musicians who do not have the funds for adequate eye care or other medical services.

We have received numerous letters of thanks and praise for providing Sight & Sound services. One recipient of their services stated, "you may have just helped to save my vision. I am forever grateful."

It our pleasure to work with them over the years, and we will continue request their services in the future. They also work with The Recording Academy's charity MusiCares and the International Blue Music Association.

Any funding you provide allows them to purchase diagnostic equipment, glasses, and helps cover their travel and accommodations expenses for doctors and volunteers at their mobile vision clinics. They are strictly a volunteer operation with no salaries and all funds go directly to providing vision care to those in need. Mark and Amy Lindsey, the founders of Sight & Sound, have a true passion to serve others and love supporting the music industry. We encourage you to donate and support Sight & Sound so they may continue to provide free eye care services to those in need. Thanks for your consideration and please contact us with any questions you may have about this organization.

Best,
