The International Bluegrass Music Association (IBMA) endorses using the vision care services of Sight & Sound (501c3), and we encourage you to support them via grants and donations. Sight & Sound has provided free state of the art vision care, free glasses, sunglasses, readers to hundreds of IBMA members at our World of Bluegrass industry conference and festival in Raleigh, NC, a valuable service with real, positive impact on our members' lives.

Sight & Sound is strictly a volunteer operation with no salaries, and all funds go directly to providing vision care to those in need. Any funding you provide allows them to purchase diagnostic equipment, glasses, and helps cover travel and accommodations expenses for doctors and volunteers at their mobile vision clinics. We encourage you to support Sight & Sound so that they may continue to provide free vision care for those without adequate access.

We will continue to request that Sight & Sound attend our events. We know the founders, Mark & Amy Lindsey have a true passion for helping those in the music community, and the services they provide make a real difference for thousands of artists and others year-round. Thank you for considering a grant or donation to this worthy charity.

Sincerely,

Eddie Huffman
